Siamese Prince In Colony Approves Change In His Government.

COMPLETING TOUR.

Studies Police Methods in Europe's Capitals.

Major Subba Swasti, Prince of Siam, and Police Commissioner in that country, arrived here this morning, to use his own expression, "travelling quietly."

During an interview with the "China Mail" the Prince explained that though his absence from his native country for 18 months had estranged him somewhat from the conditions existing there, he was of the opinion that the recent change in the national administrative policies, brought about by a bloodless revolution, had been for the best.

The primary object of his tour, the Prince said, had been to study police methods preparatory to taking up his duties as Police Commissioner.

"One year and three months of my trip was spent in Europe, together with my wife, who is returning to Siam via Suez, and who will meet me in Singapore. I returned via the United States, may first trip to that country. In America I found conditions very bad, but in reality they are no worse, than conditions of other countries. The people are more depressed, and they lack the confidence and optimism of the English people. They seem overwhelmed by the weight of their troubles," he said.

"I am a great admirer of the English people, and am exceedingly glad to be among them again. It is my first visit to Hong Kong, and I am rather eager to see the Colony. I have heard so much about it. Shanghai did not impress me greatly, in spite of its reputation as the Paris of the Far East. But Hong Kong, I have heard, is a different matter. I am looking forward to seeing it."

PENINSULA REVELRY

HOTEL CONCERT CARRIES ON.

Community Singing Till
After Midnight.

GUESTS IMPROVISE THEIR OWN
MUSIC AND SONGS.

Revelry reigned supreme in the lounge of the Peninsula Hotel last night shortly after the conclusion of the programme of the 15th Symphonic Concert. All decorum was thrust aside and the gathering assumed the jovial air of gala, shattering the illusion that the Hong Kong resident takes his pleasures seriously.

At the conclusion of the concert, about 11.15 p.m., community singing started the ball rolling, the assembly joining in with the orchestra, enthusiastically and tunefully. So great was the enthusiasm, that they were loathe to let the orchestra go at 11.30.

Between 50 and 60 people lingered there, while one of the gathering used his persuasive powers in vain to make the musicians continue. This die-hard however, eventually managed to secure a pianist, and from that moment the lounge assumed the appearance that is usually connected with New Year's Eve, St. Andrew's Ball and other similar gatherings.

Six men joined the highly popular pianist on the platform and rendered popular choruses until well after midnight, much to the delight of the remaining audience.

The spirit of the affair rapidly spread from the platform to the rest of the gathering, and the echo of "Tipperary" and other old favourites was taken up both by men and women. There was no lack of voices, from alto to bass.

"That's what I call a real night out," remarked one of the gathering as he reluctantly passed out into the night.

In spite of the absence of Mrs. Tetley, the Symphonic Concert was again marked with great success, the entire programme being too well-chosen to make mention of any particular item invidious.

SOLDIERS THREATEN SHIP'S CREW.

Seek Free Passage
From Swatow.

ARRESTED ON ARRIVAL.

Forty Charged in Kowloon
Police Court.

About 40 Chinese most of them soldiers of the 19th Route Army, apprehended for refusing to pay for tickets on board the Douglas Steamship Company's vessel, Hai Ching, were charged in the Kowloon Magistracy to-day.

They were given an opportunity to pay their fare, but they refused, and became hostile, adopting a threatening attitude aboard ship, it is alleged. They chased Mr. O. Daktel, Chief Officer, and members of the Comptroller's staff to the upper deck. Luckily, they were unarmed, as otherwise the consequences might have been very serious.

Most of them boarded at either Amoy or Swatow. At the latter port, Mr. Daktel warned all the passengers that if any of them did not have a ticket, they would be handed over to the Police authorities. The Chinese soldiers, in particular, were in a violent and belligerent mood. They refused to leave the ship, and threatened to burn it down. The ship was then ordered to return to Swatow.

ARMY HARBOUR SWIM ATTRACTS 160.

Gnr. Forrester Not To Defend Title.

CLOSE RACE PROMISED
BETWEEN EVANS & CAMPBELL.

Fixed For Wednesday.

It is learned that no fewer than 160 entries have been received for the Army Harbour Swim to be decided on Wednesday afternoon. This has exceeded all the expectations of the organisers and constitutes a new record.

Last year seventy-four competed for the event and broke the existing record. Only two of this large entry failed to complete the course.

The race, which is over a straight course from Kowloon Police Pier to the Praya Wall at the side of the Victoria Recreation Club, was won by Gnr. Forrester of the Royal Artillery who returned a time of 81 mins. 6 secs. This was his second win in successive years and it was a decided pity that the sea was on the rough side, otherwise he would have clocked a much better time.

Gnr. Forrester is not stationed in the Colony at the moment, and so will have no opportunity to make the Cup his own property. Spr. Evans (R.E.), who was only 10 yards behind Forrester last year, will have his chance to bring off an Engineer victory, but he will be hard pressed by Pte. W. T. Campbell, the versatile Borderers' swimmer.

Campbell has been conspicuous of late through his attempts on the Colony records for the Quarter and Half Mile and his unofficial British Army records over these distances. He has, however, been seriously handicapped for Wednesday's event through illness, but has been training since Friday.

Bandaman Jamieson, of the Argyls, came third last year, 54 seconds behind Forrester, and should be again seen to advantage on Wednesday.

The race will also be run in the nature of a team race, competing teams being the Royal Artillery, Argyls, Borderers and Small Units, which finished in that order last year.

NEW WING ON BLOCK TO HOUSE A CITY

SIX FLOORS TO RISE ON PRESENT STRUCTURE

Towering ten storeys high in the heart of the Hong Kong business district, the new Wing On Company Building, when it is completed, will be one of the most modern departmental stores in the commercial world, and will embrace the activity of a whole city in a small scale.

From the basement, where a huge, tiled swimming tank will be opened, to the roof, where a delightfully artistic garden will entice diners and dancers, the big building will be a humming hive of industry.

Costly reconstruction of the Wing On building will commence almost immediately, as soon as the architects' plans have been approved. Workmen will add six storeys to the building, increasing it from its present four-floor height to the dimensions of a modern sky-scraper.

The management announced to-day that the plan was undertaken in keeping with the progressive policies of the firm and to allow the expansion of the business, in pace with the advancement of Colony enterprise generally. If anything, the Wing On Company desires to be out ahead of the parade of industry leading the way in enterprise.

Ambitious Project.
The present undertaking is a most ambitious one. Construction will commence on the west wing of the building and six storeys will be added to the structure. In the (Continued on Page 12.)

Amsterdam, To-day.—In view of the increase in duties by British India, imports of Dutch textile goods have been found almost impossible. The Dutch Government has threatened to take action against the British Government. The Dutch Government has also threatened to take action against the Japanese Government, who are feared to be dumping goods in the Dutch market.

POWERS CALLED TO REPLY TO GERMANY'S NOTE

France Opposed To Arms Parity.

WONT ACT ALONE.

Paris, To-day.—Expectations that France would take the view that the question raised by the German note, "memorandum" concerns the Powers collectively, and not France individually, was confirmed to-day by the unanimous decision of the Council of Ministers to consult other signatories of the Locarno Conference and also the United States before drafting a reply to Germany.

The consultation will take a considerable time, but impetus will be given by the meeting of the League Assembly three weeks hence.

France, where opinion is unanimous, hopes to rally the Confidence Pact signatories to a refusal to allow Germany to re-arm, which the French believe would not only undermine the Disarmament Conference but imperil the success of the World Economic Conference in London in the Autumn. — Reuter.

SHAMEEN GAMING HOUSE TO SUE.

Sequel of Raid By French Officers.

PROTECTION CLAIM.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Canton, To-day.—Following the recent raid of a gambling house in the Shameen by officers of the French administration, a protest has been lodged with the Foreign Office at Canton by Mr. Kong Suk-wing.

The owners of the gambling establishment claim that they had the permission of the French Consulate to operate in the French Concession territory and that the raid was consequently unjustified.

It is understood that suit for large damages will be instituted against the French authorities by the operators of the gambling hall.

Mr. A. Brasseur of the French Consulate in Canton has been asked to investigate the matter.

PASSENGERS ROBBED.

Subsiding of Floods Sees
Renewal of Fighting.

Harbin, To-day.

With the subsiding of the floods in the North, military and bandit activities have started again.

A Japanese attack on Antachan, on the Chinese Eastern Railway, west of Harbin, resulted in the capture of the town. Three hundred Chinese were killed, but the Japanese suffered heavy casualties as well.

Bandits held up a train carrying 300 passengers on the Eastern section of the C.E.R. The train was looted and the passengers robbed of their belongings, while other raiding parties looted and burned the town of Lukashevo, a few miles further east.

Bandits are active around Changchun. — Reuter.

Sino-Japanese Peace Parleys

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, To-day.

Consul-General Haro Ishii, newly appointed to office in Shanghai, to-day met and conferred with General Wu Teh-chen, mayor of Greater Shanghai, and Mr. Lo Wen-kao, for the announced purpose of seeking terms whereby the peace of the city might be preserved.

The conference resulted from the expressions of both sides to seek a solution to the difficulties existing as a result of the third feeling engendered by the continuing anti-Japanese boycott and the terrorism elements which the Nanking Government, waged by certain lawless element, and civic administration finds it most difficult to suppress.

How Fruit Will Aid Beauty

Nature Always Ready
To Serve Humans.

If you use imagination in devising lights for the nursery, you will never need to buy night-lights in order to lure your child off to slumber. One tiny electric lamp will be all that he will need until sleep overtakes him.

It has recently been my privilege to visit a nursery that is an object lesson in imaginative illumination. Every lamp has its part to play in the working out of a fascinating nursery landscape. The ceiling is covered with ordinary ceiling paper of the type that is scattered with stars; the walls are decorated with nursery paper of the kind that shows cottages and farms scattered among hills and dales. The lighting points were not fixed until both ceiling and walls had been treated. Then came the work of bringing wires through just where the windows of the cottages and farms were situated. The effect when the tiny bulbs are lit at dusk, is that of tiny illuminated windows of hillside dwellings. In the ceiling here and there a star similarly illuminated, two being connected in each case to the same switch. Thus, by having several switches, it is possible to vary the sky display, much to the joy of the occupant of the nursery cot.

There is nothing more conducive to placid slumber than a star or a window-pane that twinkles in friendly fashion before baby eyes; nothing more reassuring if darkness still possesses imaginary terrors.

EVENING GOWN FOR THE BEACH.

In order to look "sportif" even in the evening, Frenchwomen have taken to the "beach evening gown." They will take it with them to all the smart watering places this summer.

The gown is based on the new garden apron idea which has lately become so popular. It is a real apron of coloured linen, not meeting at the back but worn over a slip of the same material. Narrow bands of the linen make a girdle which is tied round the waist and the hip line, crossing at the back. Two pockets, woven from narrow bands of jersey, give a basket character. The gown is quite new in its tailored linen and of ankle length.

White frocks are easily made seasonable by means of coloured coats. A cherry-coloured fitting coat with a tilted sailor hat, or a green bolero will give a crisp and fresh effect to the white dress that need not wait for the sun to come out again. Perhaps Mrs. Reginald Fellows gave Paris this colour note for its white with her cape of royal blue coq feathers at the Bal Blanc.—N.A.N.A.

ASBESTOS JOCKETS.

USEFUL RECIPES FOR PANTRY.

This is the marmalade season—in Hong Kong as elsewhere. Some buy it, some make it. And what one makes can be a very tasty concoction.

This is how:

One fine orange, one gib grapefruit, one juicy lemon. Wash and dry to fruit, cut in quarters, and then cut each quarter, through pulp and rind, into very thin slices, removing all pips. Cover the fruit with seven pints of cold water and leave for twenty-four hours. Boil for five hours. Leave again for twenty-four hours, then add ten breakfast-cupsful of well-pounded preserving sugar, and boil the syrup jellies on a cold plate.

Careful, Please.

What about desserts? Like them? This ought to tickle the palate:

Line an earthen or oven-glass dish with light, rich pastry. Put in a layer of shredded pineapple mixed with tablespoonsful of sugar and one tablespoonful of flour. Add a layer of peeled sliced oranges from which all pith and pips have been removed. On top of the oranges put one large sliced banana, and fill up the spaces with skinned grapes or Malaga raisins. Repeat the layers, cover with pastry, and bake rich brown.

A Tasty Morsel.

And here's another—a Parisian Pêche Melba:

The real Pêche Melba is not merely a peach-ice-cream. This is the way it should be made; choose large fresh peaches—so large that no more than four will go in a quart jug—and cook them slowly in syrup until they are soft but not broken, leaving the stones in. To serve, spread a circle of Madiers or any light cake with ice-cream about half an inch deep, press one of the peaches into the ice-cream, and pour over all a big tablespoonful of rich raspberry or strawberry syrup.

Easy Enough?

How about a few Cheese Cakes? These are always in season.

Ingredients: Four egg-yolks, two egg-whites, half-pint milk, two ounces Parmesan cheese, half-teaspoonful made mustard, salt, pepper, parsley.

Beat the milk. Beat the egg yolks and whites in a basin, add the grated cheese, salt, pepper, and mustard. When the milk reaches boiling point, pour it gently over the eggs, stirring all the time.

Have ready six small moulds, buttered or oiled, divide the mixture into them, cover with greased paper, and steam gently for about fifteen minutes. When quite set, turn the cheese-cakes out of the moulds on to a hot entree dish, decorate with parsley and serve at once.

A La Norve.

This is a recipe for fish pie, as it is made in Norway.

For this you will want some leftover fish, one gill of milk, two eggs, pepper and salt, one ounce of flour, one ounce of butter, quarter of a teaspoonful of mustard, a little lemon juice, and some pieces of lemon.

Melt the butter in a saucepan; add the flour, mix well, gradually stir in the milk, and cook all slowly for five minutes. Allow to cool. Beat the yolks of the eggs, season to taste with pepper and salt, and the mustard and a little lemon juice, and stir into the flour mixture. Flake the fish and stir this into the contents of the saucepan; well whisk the whites of the eggs and add these. Turn the mixture into a piedish and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Serve at once garnished with lemon.

VITAMIN VALUES IN GREEN STUFFS.

The reputation of cod-liver oil as a source of vitamin A hangs over from the former confusion of vitamin A and vitamin D, which are both fat-soluble or carried in fats. Cod-liver oil and egg yolk contain both of these vitamins. So does butter fat (whether in milk, cream or butter). But the content of vitamin D in milk fat varies widely and may be practically nil, whereas milk or butter fat is considered the very best source of vitamin A.

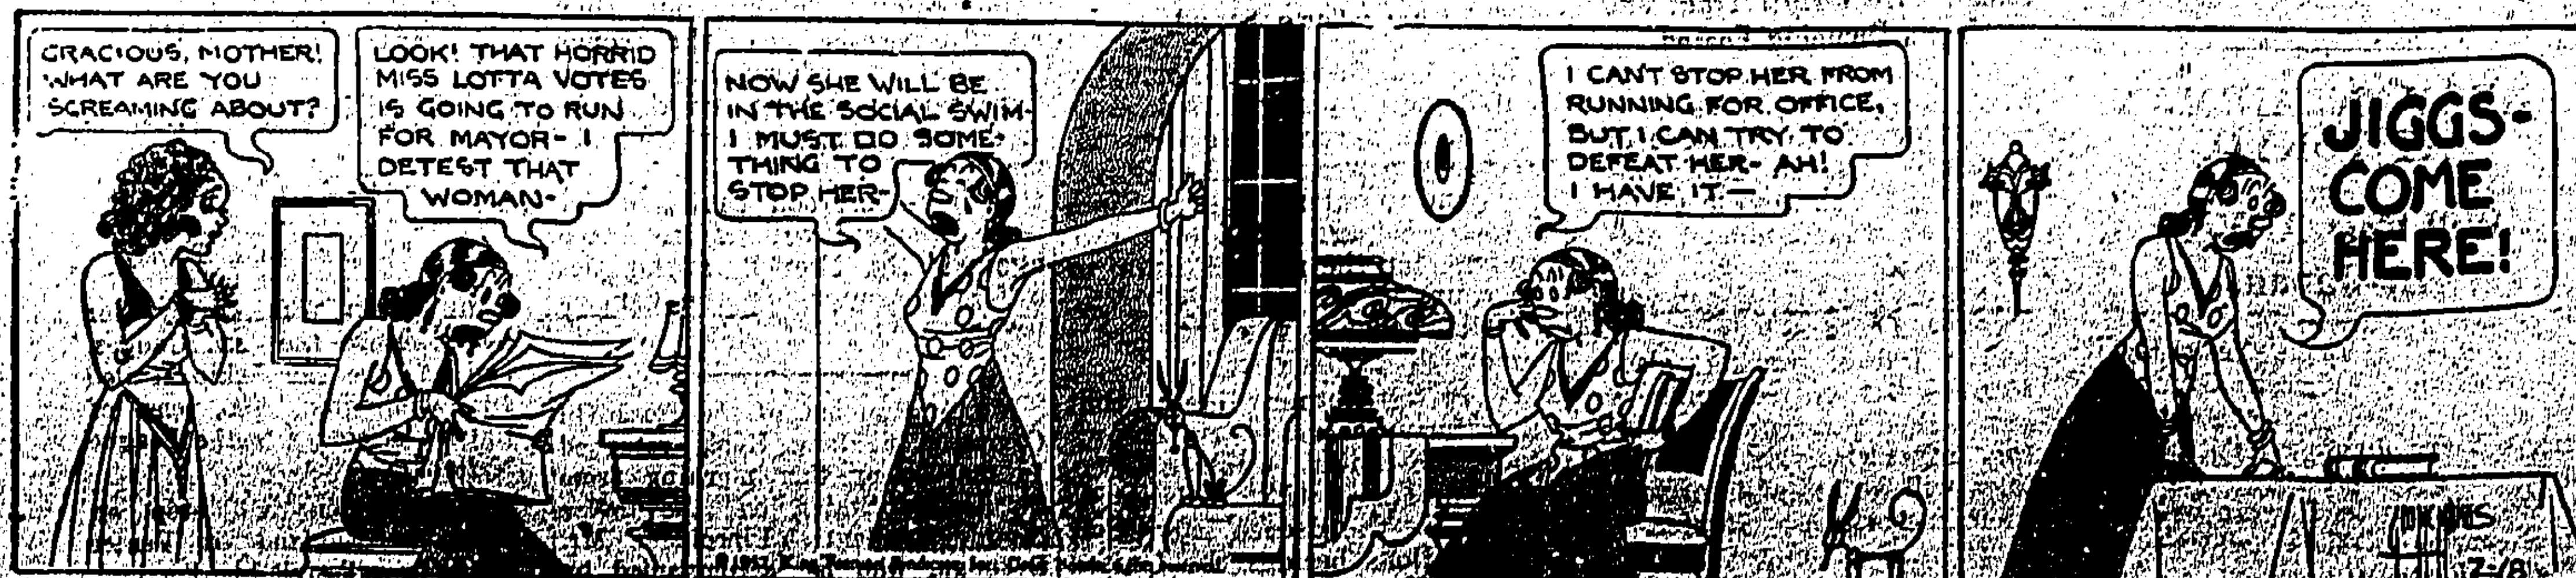

All green vegetables are good sources of vitamin A, and so are carrots.

Task Set For Bird Fancier

Being of a serious turn of mind, Mr. E. M. Nicholson, the English naturalist, sets the amateur bird student a number of purposeful tasks in his book, "The Art of Bird Watching." To Mr. Nicholson the popular pastime of recognizing birds and compiling lists is a futile pursuit. He recommends detailed study of their habits and the accumulation of useful information about them. For ornithology is a subject that still lacks data.

After two preliminary chapters about the technique of studying birds Mr. Nicholson settles down to a detailed discussion of certain problems and objects in ornithology—the practical use of the bird census, the relation of species to terrain, the continuous observation of nests and broods, the problems of courtship, the changing phenomena and the significance of song.

"The Art of Bird Watching" is an austere volume about a singularly beguiling subject. Like many of his countrymen, Mr. Nicholson has the faculty of applying cold intellect to a subject with which he is deeply in love. Here he takes the love for granted and writes for bird students who have also matured. To most of them this "practical guide to field observation" should be continuously stimulating. It is bristling with ideas. It provides a programme for a popular science that is notoriously lacking in system.

ANOTHER FAULKNER TRAGEDY.

Powerful Language Swings Story.

The Faulkner story "Miss Zilphia Gant" is published with an introduction by Professor Henry Smith of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Dr. Smith, who casts a beam of light on the terrible mechanisms that move most of the people in the Faulkner novels by contrasting the author's methods with those of Meredith and Henry James, does well by this particular story when he says: "Faulkner felt the remnants of Europe in America as unreal." Certainly the father, mother and daughter in the slight "Miss Zilphia Gant" are cut off from any sustaining tradition.

Mrs. Gant, who kills her husband when he is unfaithful, has never been further from home than the county seat and has never seen a moving picture or read a magazine. She simply acts in a primitive fashion; then proceeds to ruin her daughter's life by a pathological insistence that the girl must be protected from all men. The story has a sort of bare horror, achieved by Faulkner's unerring use of the right words.

WIFE WRITES LIFE OF FAMOUS FLIER.

Tells Of Sacrifice Of His Life.

DIGNIFIED WORK.

In a fine spirit of self devotion and of appreciation of her husband's ability, success and good qualities, Mrs. Bennett sends forth this little biographical memorial of the famous flier whose untimely death four years ago was an incalculable loss to American aviation. She writes of him and his achievements with restraint and dignity and keeps herself and her emotions in the background. But enough of her feeling in the great, tense moments of his career shows through to give her narrative a warmer human appeal and to establish a closer sympathy between her and her readers. It is well that she has written the biography, for the story of Floyd Bennett's life work is an essential part of the history of aviation in this country, and it was needed to complete the record.

Mrs. Bennett traces his boyhood development briefly, but tells enough to show how bare and pinched it was, how far it fell short of what should be the right of every child. But the privations of a poverty-stricken farm in Northern New York, with the consequent skimped and hard-working childhood, seem merely to have given him inspiration and courage and to have developed the strength and steadiness of character that were among his outstanding qualities. He came to aviation by way of interest in automobiles and their motors, followed by work as a landsman mechanic in the United States Navy, in which he quickly advanced to instruction in flying. After the war he served on the U. S. S. Richmond, one of the American navy's first airplane carriers, and after five years there he was selected to accompany Commander Byrd in charge of the naval unit on Macmillan's Arctic expedition in 1925, which was recalled before it had made the final effort to reach the North Pole.

Byrd's Assistant. On this thwarted trip Byrd laid the plans and asked Bennett's collaboration for the famous airplane journey across the North Pole the next year. Mrs. Bennett tells at considerable length the story of the successful flight she quotes from her husband's diary and so makes public for the first time his own account of that achievement.

The rest of the too brief tale is quickly told—the co-operation with Commander Byrd in preparation for the flight to Paris in which Bennett was to share, the accident out of which he came with a punctured lung, a fractured rib, a fractured skull and a broken leg, and necessity of being laid up for many weeks in a hospital, preparatory work with Byrd for the South Pole expedition, and then the fate.

Famous Master Writes On Art Of The Foil

In the preface to his book, "The Art of the Foil," Signor Barbasetti is at pains to point out that after teaching at the Italian Fencing Masters' School in Rome and the Austro-Hungarian Central Fencing School in Vienna, he was a private instructor in Paris. He implies that personal observation and experience in countries with different psychological backgrounds have enabled him to expound an unbiased theory of his art. Of course, one accepts the implication with a grain of salt. Barbasetti learned his profession of maitre d'armes in Rome. What ever else he learned in Paris and Vienna produced no basic change in his essentially Italian style. Indeed, while saying a kind word for the fleuret (the French foil) as a recreation, a healthy sport, he denies its efficacy as training for serious combat.

Weapon Too Heavy. When a fencer accustomed to the fleuret grasps the heavier and more businesslike epee, he finds himself unable to handle it with the same skill. The Italian fencer, on the other hand, habituated to the use of the spada (save for its button point, a true duelling sword), has the advantage of being constantly in training for the real thing. Exponents of the French school, however, regard groundwork with the fleuret as of great psychological value, and few epee men neglect having an occasional bout with the foil. In this connection it may be noted that American fencers have as a rule followed the French tradition. For the past fifty years maitres d'armes and provots of the Fencers Club in New York have been Frenchmen, and instructors in the service academies and universities have, with rare exceptions, likewise been French or French trained.

This is, then, a manual which ignores fleuret practice, concentrating rather on instruction in the use of the spada.

Different Hilt. The spada differs from its French congener, the epee, chiefly in the form of the hilt: like the epee, it has a bell guard, but the hilt has the characteristic Italian crossbar and arches, assuring a firmer grip and considerably reducing the possibility of disarming during an assault.

Fencers who use the epee or spada (whether they be amateurs or professional instructors) will find this concise manual with its many line-cut illustrations a practical guide to the fine points as the general theory. Fleuret fencers will find it almost equally useful, for the technique of attack, defense and counter-attack is the same.

The second half of the book is devoted to a brief survey of fencing from its misty beginnings down to modern times. Half-tone illustrations of fencing bouts and duels are pictured in the text. There is a glossary of fencing terms with their equivalents in French, Italian and German, but no bibliography.

ful journey on which he rushed by airplane to carry succor to the fliers of the Bremen, and died of pneumonia in the hospital at Quebec April 25, 1925. Many honours came to him for his achievements and more have been added to his memory.

The little book shows how amply he deserved them all, how fully he had earned every one by his own courageous achievements and sterling character. Especially is it noteworthy for the clearness with which it brings out the points to which Bennett's success in the air, like Lindbergh's, was in no small part due to his thoroughness, his care, his knowledge and the skill with which he prepared for his flight.

LARGE COLLECTION OF QUOTATIONS.

A Valuable Work By A Reader.

A comprehensive collection of quotations is presented by John W. Horne, numbering over 2,500, dealing with about 400 subjects and quoted from more than that many authors. The compiler, so it is explained in a brief preface, has been a diligent reader throughout 40 years of work as pastor, preacher, editor, teacher, and it has been his habit through all that time to note down as he found it any thought, sentence, paragraph that seemed to him to hold the power of uplifting the human spirit.

Out of the consequent collection he has made this book. The excerpts are classified according to subject and a table of contents lists the themes alphabetically.

There is also an index of authors filling seven pages, arranged alphabetically. They range through the centuries from Zoroaster and Solon to William Lyon Phelps, from Saint Ambrose to Voltaire, from Marcus Aurelius to Daniel Webster, from Ovid to Benjamin Franklin. Almost all are in prose, but now and then a short stanza, or a few lines from a poem, has crept in. For those who like to use quotations it will be a useful book, and it will offer many fascinations for those who enjoy piecemeal reading. As a reference volume it will have much value.

"DISORDERLY CONDUCT"—KING'S THEATRE.

Spencer Tracy, who was featured in "Quick Millions," "She Wanted A Millionaire" and "Up The River," enacts his greatest screen characterisation in Fox's all-talking laugh hit "Disorderly Conduct" which comes to the King's Theatre to-morrow for a season. Tracy portrays the role of an honest and ambitious motorcycle officer who is unjustly demoted by political influence, and decides to abandon honesty for larceny. Another player who does exceptionally well is Ralph Bellamy, a youth with twelve years theatrical experience.

"Disorderly Conduct" tells of the unique adventure-romance of the Police department. Brendel, the celebrated comedian, gives the film its full measure of fun. Others in the supporting cast include Sally Eilers, Ralph Morgan, Allan Dinehart and Corbellous Keefe. The film was directed by Mr. John W. Considine, Jr., and was adapted from an original story written by William Anthony.

"MATA HARI"—QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"Mata Hari," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational drama, is now showing at the Queen's Theatre. It is the thrilling story of the life and death of one of the most amazing characters of the World War, Mata Hari, the beautiful spy. So vivid a personality, so alluring a beauty and so nimble a wit could have been portrayed by only the very best, and Director George Fitzmaurice did not err when he selected the great Greta Garbo for the role of Mata Hari. She gives a performance which ranks with the finest and most genuine portrayals in screen history, and which will be regarded as a standard for actors of both stage and screen.

Ramon Novarro, in the leading male role, lives up to his usual excellent achievements, whilst Lionel Barrymore as the Russian Military Attaché once more proves the sound judgment of those who awarded him the acting honours for 1931. The locale of the story is Paris in the early days of the World War, and the gambling casino is supposed to represent a fashionable rendezvous located just outside the capital.

"FOUR INFANTRYMEN"—STAR THEATRE.

"Four Infantrymen" an epic of the war, with an all German cast, is filled with grim realism of the horrors of the war, even more so than in the famous film "All Quiet..."

Originally called "Comrades of 1918" this film was made by Nero-Film with all dialogue in German, not counting a few occasional utterances in French. There is no special continuity to the action, which is no more than a series of incidents showing the dreadful consequences of war, its destruction of men and minds as well as property, and the terrifying outbursts of the afflicted soldiers who don't even know why they are ordered to kill and die.

"WORLD AND THE FLESH"—MAJESTIC THEATRE.

A dramatic story of the Red rising during the Russian revolution, forms the vivid background of "The World and the Flesh" which commenced its second release locally at the Majestic Theatre, yesterday.

In the leading roles, George Bancroft and Miriam Hopkins are a splendid combination. The acting of Miss Hopkins is especially creditable, as this actress has made great strides since her splendid portrayal in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

The story is filled with thrilling events, and there is not a single dull moment. Well worth seeing.

CHINESE JOBLESS IN JAPAN.

Funds Are Needed For Relief.

Nanking, August 26.

The immediate appropriation of funds for the repatriation of unemployed Chinese now stranded in Japan is requested by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in a dispatch to the Ministry of Finance.

Following the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese imbroglio, thousands of Chinese residents in Japan suffered from the anti-Chinese feeling prevalent there. Most of these have since returned to China on steamers chartered for the purpose by the National Government. Over 700, however, are still stranded in Japan, and in order to enable them to return to their native land, passage money is urgently needed. —Kuo Min.

"SOOKY"—ORIENTAL THEATRE.

Jackie Cooper and Robert Coogan, of "Skippy" fame, are together again in Paramount's "Sooky" now showing at the Oriental Theatre—a film that must not be missed by children as well as adults.

The two juveniles act wonderfully well, but their childish sorrows are perhaps a little over-emphasised. There are many tearful scenes, but out of them all comes laughter, with their pranks. Irene Dunne and Helen Jerome Eddy appear in the supporting adult cast. The film is a sequel to "Skippy."

"THE VAGABOND KING"—GARDEN THEATRE.

Denis King's masterful singing voice is heard to advantage in this technicolour production "The Vagabond King" which is having a return release at the Garden Theatre.

Jeanette MacDonald, in the leading feminine role, renders excellent support both by her acting and singing. King is seen in the role of a prince among Vagabonds. Lush settings add much to the splendour of the film.

"MONTE CARLO"—TAIPEING THEATRE.

Jeanette MacDonald also appeared at the Taipeing Theatre where she is starred in "Monte Carlo" with Jack Buchanan. The film contains many fine scenes including "Beyond the Blue Horizon" sung by Miss MacDonald whose voice is heard to advantage in the film. The film is a return release at the Taipeing Theatre.

A Hundred Years Of Service.

In 1832 the British Medical Association possessed fifty members; a year later the number was 316. To-day the Association has 100 branches, 250 divisions, and a membership of 35,000. Progress has been continuous; the record of service which the forthcoming centenary number of the "British Medical Journal" may be expected to disclose cannot stir the imagination and awaken the pride of men of good will in every part of the British Empire. Service has taken two chief forms. In the first place the Association has sustained and increased the sense of a common enterprise which now dominates the mind of every British doctor; secondly, it has given to that enterprise a force and driving power without which many of the achievements of the past half-century must have been barren of advantage. The Association, for example, had reached a position of real strength and importance at the moment when the Insurance Act was set up. After a period of doubt the decision was taken to support the new venture, and a situation fraught with all manner of dangers both to the profession and to the public received immediately a new complexion. The "panel service," which might easily have become a by-word of inefficiency, has been built up into an organization which, in spite of faults, commands a wide degree of trust. Nor did the Association in its dealings with the Government fall into the error of allowing itself to become a mere agent of official pleasure. The family doctor, to the advantage of his patient, retains his freedom of action and his individual status, and looks with confidence to his Association to fight his battles for him against any and every attempt to turn him into a servant of the State rather than of the public. A function of discipline has therefore been thrust upon the Association; it has been exercised with such wisdom that the professional spirit is stronger to-day than at any earlier period. A second example of the manner in which the Association has served the public as well as the doctor is furnished by the arrangements made for the supply of medical officers during the War. The zeal of physicians and surgeons to serve their country and the great need of medical help which existed brought about at one period of the War a confusion which threatened the health of the industrial forces and indeed of the whole population. Realizing how disastrous such a state of matters might become, the British Medical Association offered its help to Sir Alfred Keogh. From that moment the needs of the Army were fully satisfied without prejudice to civilian needs. These, among other, services convinced the whole profession of the merit of the Association, and, in addition, established the Association in public regard. If there were criticisms of the boldness with which the Association asserted its representative character, they became silent in face of a membership which is all but a measure of the size of the profession itself. To-day nobody disputes that, whatever may be the evolution of the practice of medicine in the British Commonwealth, such changes as occur will be made with the consent of the Association. Without its consent, or in face of its opposition, change is impossible. It is this certainty which lends such great importance to the deliberations that are about to begin. Medicine is a part of Statecraft. A wise medical policy is the essential foundation of the nation's health. Happily there is much to reassure the doubter in the present situation. Even the advocates of change are becoming aware that the practice of medicine is an art as well as a science, and that the relations existing between the doctor and his patient play an essential part in treatment. The British Medical Association is pledged to the freedom of the profession; it has maintained the doctor's right of independent judgment and action in face of every attempt to challenge that right. There is reason to hope, therefore, that its influence will be cast in the future, as in the past, on the side of liberty, and that in consequence British medicine will retain its peculiarly clinical character. The office of the State in this event will remain that of a partner with doctor and patient, and evolution will follow lines agreeable to the English character. If cure must yield place to prevention as an ideal, the preventive aspect of care will not be lost sight of, but will, on the contrary, increase in importance. Here is a field of enterprise for the Association in which all its activities can be employed. The world needs better doctors; it will obtain them only when every doctor is a better, more widely informed, and more zealous man. Meanwhile past achievement may very well serve as inspiration.

REV. L. N. WATKINS TO LEAVE HONG KONG.

Sails With Family To New Zealand.

THREE YEARS HERE.

After just over three years' work in Hong Kong, the Rev. Lawrence Neville Watkins, Priest-in-charge of St. Peter's Church, West Point, with his family, will sail for New Zealand on Saturday, October 1.

Mr. Watkins is taking up work in the Christ Church Diocese of New Zealand.

His departure a year before the period of his agreement expires has been made advisable by the financial position of St. John's Cathedral, which the Cathedral Council some time ago decided did not justify the maintenance of a Priest-in-charge of St. Peter's Church.

During his period of service here, Mr. Watkins has done much successful work in influencing a considerable number of parishioners to resume their contacts with St. Peter's. He has made many friends with the Police and Prisons Departments, and with the Volunteers and the local T. C. H. group. Last winter, he put a great deal of energy and initiative into the services held in the Chapel of the Resurrection, Happy Valley.

A Sub-Committee of the St. Peter's Sub-Council is arranging a Farewell At Home for Rev. and Mrs. Watkins in the Cathedral Hall from 4.30 to 5.30 p.m. on Thursday, September 29.

News in Brief.

Quarantine restrictions have been imposed against arrivals from Kiangchow (Hohow) and Foochow on account of cholera.

In connection with a report concerning the disappearance of Miss N. W. Bascombe's car from the Chater Road parking stand, it now transpires that the car was taken away, in error, for repairs to the Duro Garage.

Fatally injured through the upsetting of a pot of boiling water, Chau So, aged 4, living with his parents at 46, Sai Yung Choi Street, Samshui, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital, where he died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Police were informed by the Naval authorities on Saturday of a casualty which occurred on H.M.S. Tamar, the man concerned being Li Shu-fat, a canteen boy, employed on H.M.S. Whitehall, who had a lacerated head wound, said to have been inflicted by another "boy" employed on the Tamar. The injured man was taken to the Government Civil Hospital.

Personal Pars.

Mr. Shui Fat-shing, accompanied by Miss Wu Muk Lan, daughter of Mr. Wu Han-min, arrived in Hong Kong yesterday, allegedly for the purpose of discussing with Mr. Wu the Third Plenary Session of the Central Kuomintang.

Mrs. W. T. Goodwin, wife of the General Agent for the Dollar Steamship Line in Hong Kong, arrived here this morning, accompanied by her daughter aboard the President Lincoln. Mrs. Goodwin has been to the United States on vacation, and has returned to join her husband.

GIRLS TELL TALE OF MASTER'S CRUELTY.

Found Wand'ring in Colony Streets.

The Secretariat of Chinese Affairs is investigating the case of three Chinese girls, said to be found, who were found by the Police on Saturday wandering aimlessly in the "Woo" Street.

Their ages ranged between 13 and 15. They stated that they had come down from Canton by the morning train, having run away from their employers, by whom they declared they were cruelly treated.

It is a greater change for an Englishman to cross the Irish Sea than the English Channel.

Ireland to-day, outside a few cities, is more of a foreign country to an Englishman than France or Belgium. One can sense the spirit of militant Nationalism in the air.

The only British flag I saw throughout the country was in the railed-in enclosure of the Royal Irish Yacht Club at Dunlaoghaire, which was once Kingstown, writes a Correspondent in London.

In the kind of controversy that has arisen, so much depends upon the personalities of the people concerned that it is as well for us to understand the kind of men with whom we have to deal.

We all know our jovial Jimmy Thomas and our genial Lord Hailsham; but we don't know the people they faced across the table in the fateful early discussions.

De Valera, by far the biggest figure in Ireland to-day, towering head and shoulders above his colleagues, is Eamon de Valera. Here is a man in deadly earnest, who will go to the stake for an ideal. Still more important, he will take the whole of his fellow-countrymen, who will follow, with him.

Tall, lean, dark, of serious mien, the British public might suppose from his photographs and cartoons that de Valera is dour and unsympathetic. The exact contrary is the case.

I can best describe him by saying that he is a charming personality, a gentleman in every sense of the word, cultured and well read.

He moves about with the utmost freedom, without guards or detectives, and is half-fellow-well-met with all and sundry. Yet de Valera has the dignity of the born leader, and has the respect even of his most bitter opponents.

Probably the most outstanding of his colleagues is Seán Lemass, an engineer by profession, and now Minister of Industry and Commerce.

He headed the Irish Free State delegation to Ottawa. He is as unlike the traditional Irishman as possible. Shrewd, keen-faced, hard-headed, with a scientific turn of mind, he is practical above all things.

Economic War. He and many other intelligent Irishmen would welcome an "economic war" with Great Britain.

This view was expressed to me by successful professional and business men, politically minded clergy, and even by farmer and working men.

We in Britain had better get this idea clearly in our heads. These are the real Sinn Féiners, who are more economic nationalists than political patriots.

They know that a struggle with England will lead to suffering, poverty, and loss in the short run, but in the long run will benefit Ireland by throwing her back on her own resources.

This, undoubtedly, is the view of Jim Regan, the Minister of Agriculture, and of Rutledge, who holds the portfolio of Lands and Fisheries.

Rutledge, by the by, is what the Western Celts would describe as an Anglo-Irishman, like Cosgrave, of Anglo-Saxon descent.

These men face the problem of a whole generation of young Irishmen who, for reasons with which we are all too familiar, have been unable to emigrate.

They leave school early because there is no means of continuing their education unless their fathers can afford to put them into the priesthood; there is no work for them on the land, and Irish industries are rudimentary.

The very cattle trade, which is threatened by the import duties, is looked upon by these economic extremists as an evil. For they declare that it has led to the shrinkage of the tilted soil of Ireland from four and a quarter millions of acres fifty years ago to one and a quarter millions now.

The rich grass ranches produce fine cattle, but employ few men, and Ireland imports immense quantities of cereals which the Republicans believe she should grow herself.

Ireland Is Foreign Sail To Briton

Nation's Leaders Are Almost Unknown.

DANGEROUS POLICIES

The compulsorily idle young Irishmen are ready prey for the Republican Army recruiting sergeants.

De Valera has the dream of a nation of saints and poets holding up the torch of learning and religion during a coming Dark Age of pagan materialism.

Lemass, Regan, and the others visualise a rich Ireland, exploiting its own natural resources, a self-contained Garden of Eden.

These Republicans seriously hope to entice the six counties of Northern Ireland into the Free State system by making Southern Ireland so prosperous and happy that the hard-headed settlers of the Plantation will clamour for admission.

Very different is the personality of Cosgrave and his principal colleagues like Patrick MacGilligan and Ernest Blythe.

Their Government was highly efficient, and they themselves devoted public servants; but the people got tired of them after ten years, as they will get tired of the best Government, especially when that Government governs.

Cosgrave is a strong-minded realist, witty, of easy manner, broad-minded, but of iron will. He is genuinely alarmed at the prospect of a conflict with Ireland's great neighbour, and believes that an attempt to make Ireland economically independent is bound to fail. The feeling between the two rival Nationalist parties is bitter in the extreme.

The best orator in the Dail is Patrick MacGilligan, who was Minister of External Affairs in the Cosgrave Government. Young, quick, good-looking, with a bitter tongue, he is the most formidable opponent in the Irish Parliament of de Valera.

He reminds me of Lloyd George in his younger days when he used to fasten on the late Mr. Balfour, as he then was, and lash him with his tongue.

What is it that divides these two Nationalist parties? It is not class, nor nationality, nor religion. The division is not between the "haves" and the "have-nots," but, broadly speaking, between the older and younger generations.

Cosgrave is supported by 100,000 Irish ex-service men, de Valera by the untamed youth who are still organised in companies, battalions and brigades of the Irish Republican Army.

Youth's Hero.

Irish youth—including the girls—worships de Valera; the pre-war generation, the middle-aged men and women, generally believe in Cosgrave; and the balance is held by the Irish Labour Party.

Norton, its leader, is secretary of the Irish Postal Workers. Young, practical-minded, he believes that legislation advantageous to Irish labour will be forthcoming from the present Government. And he will support it through thick and thin.

The veteran Labour leader is Senator Johnson, whose name has been mentioned as the next Governor-General. He went through the great labour struggles of the last thirty years, has much mellowed, and has the respect of men of all parties.

He will be a moderating influence, and his advice will be on the side of sanity and moderation. Johnson is a great statesman, and an asset to his country.

Face Of A Saint.

Probably the most influential man in the Irish Labour Party is William O'Brien, who is not even a member of the Dail. For he is general secretary of the largest union in Ireland, the Transport and General Workers.

GENERAL CHANG IS ASSASSINATED.Famous War Lord Is Murdered In Tsinan.*A RUTHLESS CHIEF.

Peiping, Yesterday. General Chang Chung-chang, former Military Governor of Shantung Province, was cold bloodedly assassinated on Friday as he was entering a train at Tsinan, capital of Shantung, en route for Tientsin.

Three assailants have been arrested.—Reuter.

Shantung Record.

General Chang, Governor of Shantung for two years, ruled with a ruthlessness for which he won renown, and it is altogether likely that his murder was effected by some of his blood enemies out of vengeance.

He was ousted from Power in Shantung in 1928 by the Nationalists, after a stubborn fight against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek. As long as the late Chang Tso-lin was his ally, Chang was secure, but in the end his generals deserted him and he was left to fight a losing war in the north country. He headed a plot against Peiping in the pro-Japanese Anfu Party, and fled to Japan when it failed.

ECUADOR REVOLT STILL SERIOUS.State Of Siege In Quito Called.*DEAD NUMBER 800.

Quayquil, Yesterday. Despite the announcement that the revolt in Ecuador has been finally crushed a state of siege has been declared in Quito, where the authorities have announced their intention to seize all arms in possession of civilians.

It is officially confirmed that 800 were killed in the fighting during the past week.—Reuter.

GENEVA LOOKS FOR LYTTON REPORT.Within Period Of Ten Days.

London, Yesterday. The Lytton Commission report is expected to reach the Secretary-General of the League of Nations in the course of the next ten days, the Sunday Times learns.

Probably copies will be formally distributed to the governments concerned, so that they may have the opportunity of studying it before discussing its recommendations at Geneva.—Reuter.

Party Leaves Peiping.

Peiping, Yesterday. Lord Lytton and his party hopped off for Shanghai at 10 o'clock this morning in Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's aeroplane.

The Young Marshal personally attended and saw the party off.—Reuter.

An ardent Nationalist, he was imprisoned in England during the "troubles," and went on hunger-strike. With a clipped beard, the face of a saint, a broken, limping body, the hands of an artist, and the eyes of a dreamer, he will be followed by the working men and women of Dublin and the other cities to the very end.

His influence behind the scenes will be decisive. So long as William O'Brien supports de Valera—and there is no sign of this support being withdrawn—the Irish Labour Party will uphold the present Government.

And the Irish mean to fight. If their cattle trade is injured they will put down an embargo on the two million tons of Welsh and Lancashire coal at present imported and obtain their supplies from Poland or Germany.

They will buy their paper from Sweden, their agricultural implements from America, and they will live on their own resources.

Ireland can feed herself, and her people are exalted with a spirit of Nationalism that thrives on combat.

POLICE CLASH WITH JAPANESE MARINESCHINESE BATTERED BY ANGRY BLUEJACKETS*SIKH GOES TO RESCUE*(From Our Own Correspondent.)*SHANGHAI, SEPT. 3.

AN UGLY INCIDENT OCCURRED ON NANKING ROAD, IN THE HEART OF THE INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENT LAST NIGHT, IN WHICH TWO TRUCKLOADS OF JAPANESE MARINES AND A RIOT SQUAD, INCLUDING EUROPEAN OFFICERS, FROM CENTRAL POLICE HEADQUARTERS, CAME TO GRIPS AND BLOWS.

The Japanese naval trucks were clearing an intersection and attempted to turn against the traffic signals. A Sikh policeman on duty at the spot shouted to the driver of the naval lorry to stop and the man applied his brakes and swerved in to the curb, almost hitting a Chinese tramway greaser.

The Chinese turned upon the lorry-load of sober-faced blue-jackets and poured upon them a torrent of abuse. Whether the Japanese understood him or not, they apparently gathered the implications and were provoked. Four of their number leaped from the truck and seized the coolie, bundled him into their midst on the vehicle and commenced to move off.

The truck was moving slowly, more and more alarming. The Japanese marines were still refusing to hand over the prisoner, the Sikh constable was commencing to make movements as though he would take the man from them by force, while the now dense and furious crowd was getting more out of hand every moment.

It was at this grave juncture that the riot vans swept into the street and Sikh and European officers, grim and unhurried, flung their way through the Chinese mob and reached the side of the lone Constable in the midst of all this turmoil.

Just what tact the officers used to persuade the Japanese to surrender their prisoner, has not been divulged. He was in their hands within a few minutes, somewhat battered, but not seriously hurt. A European officer was struck in the face during the melee, but whether by a Japanese or Chinese is not known positively.

The coolie, whose fluent abuse had precipitated the situation, was taken in custody to Central Police Station by a little group of officers, and behind, in a jeering, angry procession, marched a mob of Chinese surrounding the two Japanese naval lorries.

An inquiry is proceeding, but the results, if any, have not been ascertained as yet.

LYTTON REPORT COMPLETED BUT KEPT A SECRETSpecial Session Of League Is Likely.*COMMISSION GOES HOME.*Members Unanimous in Their Findings.*Peiping, Sept. 3.

It is learned that the report of the Lytton Commission is unanimous and complete. Lord Lytton and his colleagues, with the exception of the French and German members who are travelling via Siberia, arrived in Shanghai by air to-day, en route to Europe.

The contents of the report is not being communicated to China or Japan but copies are being left behind for China's and Japan's Governments to be opened the same day and hour they are released in Geneva.

Rumours as to the contents of the report have flown abroad but any prognostication is no more than guess-work.

The unanimity of Commission members is a most significant aspect, however, from it observers draw varying conclusions, among these being the suspicion that the report may be somewhat innocuous.—Reuter.

It is understood the Lytton report will not be considered at the forthcoming session of the WORKMEN FIGHT IN LEAGUE BUILDING.Strikers Attempt To Prevent Work.

Geneva, Yesterday. Pistols were used, and stones and tools were hurled, in a fierce free fight between strikers and workers at the new League of Nations building, which is now being erected here.

Joiners who are on strike rushed the works with a view to intimidating men who were still working, and considerable damage was done in the ensuing affray before the police gained control of the situation.

Ten arrests were effected.—Reuter.

NANKING GUARDING AGAINST TROUBLE.Anniversary Of The Mukden Occupation.

Nanking, Yesterday. Acting under instructions from Chiang Kai-shek, the local authorities have prohibited mass meetings and demonstrations during the whole of September, as feeling is expected to run high in view of the approaching anniversary of the occupation of Mukden on September 18.—Reuter.

League of Nations Assembly, but a special session may be called in the beginning of November to deal with the matter.—Reuter.

WOMAN AS TEXAS GOVERNOR"Ma" Ferguson Leaves Nomination.*Dallas, Texas, Sept. 1.

Former Governor Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson to-day was assured of becoming the next governor of Texas when a virtual complete count of the Democratic gubernatorial run-off primary showed that she had won over Governor Ross Sterling.

With only 150 ballots uncounted out of the entire state, the results were:—

Mrs. Ferguson . . . 476,750

Gov. Sterling . . . 474,352

Since the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Texas, the 37-year-old grandmother to-night was considered as good as elected.

"Ma" is one of the nation's characters. She ran for the governorship before and was elected after her husband, formerly a governor of Texas, was impeached.

She retired as governor in 1927. That office has been occupied since by Dan Moody and Sterling, her prospective return being after six years' absence.

Washington, Sept. 1.

House aides declared to-day that President Herbert Hoover personally suggested that Governor General Theodore Roosevelt remain in the Philippines rather than return to the United States to take active part in the campaign.

Simultaneously a high administration spokesman explained that Governor Roosevelt's plans to return to the United States were made after a request had been sent to him by managers of the President's re-election drive to return and help in the campaign.

When the President learned that Governor Roosevelt had indicated that it might not be advisable for him to return but that he planned to do so at the request of campaign leaders, he ordered Secretary of War Hurley to cable a countermand to the previous suggestions that Governor Roosevelt come.

Governor General Theodore Roosevelt has cancelled his projected trip to the United States on September 14. He gave the reason for this sudden change of plans in the following statement issued at Malacanang yesterday noon.

"To-day I have received the following cable from the Secretary of War:

"After full consideration of the situation as presented by you, the President has reached the conclusion that you should not leave your duties as Governor General for the purpose of participating in the campaign in the United States. He has therefore asked me to advise you that under all the circumstances he believes it to be your duty to remain at your post."

"Under the circumstances of course the plans for my trip to the United States are cancelled. I consider this a striking illustration of President Hoover's disinterested devotion to public service, his interest in the Philippine Islands, and the fact that he is the man America needs, and must have as President in this moment of national emergency."—United Press.

MEXICAN CABINET LEAVES OFFICE.General Rodriguez Acting President.*Mexico City, Yesterday.

Following the resignation of the Cabinet as a sequel to the resignation of President Ortiz Rubio, on the grounds of health, General Rodriguez, who stamped out the 1929 rebellion in Mexico, has temporarily taken over the Presidency.—Reuter.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BRIGADE WORK.

The return of cases treated by the St. John Ambulance Brigade in the New Territories for the month of August, totalled to 5,607, 2,059 cases being from Chung Shan. With the exception of 12 maternity cases, and three cases which were sent to Hospital, they were general ailments.

The returns for the other districts are:—Panling, 1,842 cases; Un Long, 1,338 cases; Kam Tin, 1,061 cases; Tai Long, 758 cases; and Tai Po, 44 cases. Tai Po returns are for one week only.

Out of the grand total, 22 cases were sent to Hospital and 85 were maternity.

DANCERS DELIGHT AUDIENCE.Peninsula Hotel's Entertainment.

Seldom does the public of Hong Kong have the opportunity of seeing the work of such distinguished artists as Miss Svetlanova and Mr. Salnikoff, whose dancing at the Peninsula Hotel on Saturday night, delighted a crowded gathering in the Rose Room.

Three numbers were given, the best being the Snake Dance, the pair being vociferously applauded until they gave an encore. The Apache Dance, the final number, was no less successful in drawing the admiration of the crowd.

Arrangements, in the hands of Mr. A. G. Piovaneli, manager of the Peninsula Hotel, reflect great credit upon the management.

Among the many guests present were the following:—

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Capt. A. V. Harvey, Mr. F. Reck, Miss B. Walker, Major and Mrs. Brasier-Craigh, Mr. R. O'Shea, Mr. Taxford, Mr. Wolf, Mr. H. B. White, Mr. Fogall, Mr. N. C. Recreio Win Spey Royal Cup

Luz Gives Portuguese Team Narrow Bowls Victory

THEIR FIRST SUCCESS

KOWLOON DOCKS IN FINAL ROUND FOR THIRD CONSECUTIVE YEAR.

The Club de Recreio won the Spey Royal Cup for the first time in the history of the Club when they defeated the Kowloon Docks Recreation Club by 24 shots to 21 in the Final Round on the Talkoo R. C. green yesterday afternoon.

R. F. Luz was again largely responsible for the Portuguese victory. His consistency throughout was remarkable.

This was the third consecutive Final in which the Kowloon Docks had figured. They won the Cup in 1930 by defeating Craigenower, but the latter turned the tables on them last year.

The teams were as follow:—

Club de Recreio	Kowloon Docks
L. A. Gutierrez	J. V. Ramsay
A. Gomes	H. A. Cooper
C. G. Silva	J. McKelvie
R. F. Luz	J. C. Brown

CHINESE R.C. BEAT CRAIGENGOWER.

Win "B" Division Title For Ninth Year.

The Chinese Recreation Club won the "B" Division Championship of the Lawn Tennis League for the ninth year in succession when they beat the Craigenower Cricket Club by 5½ sets to 3½ at Happy Valley on Saturday.

Both teams went on to the Courts with an undefeated record behind them, and it was thought that the Craigenower team would triumph as they were playing on their own courts. Zimmern and R. Choa, probably their best pair, however, failed unaccountably and were beaten decisively in all three sets. Had they won one set, Craigenower would have earned the right for a replay for the title.

J. W. Leonard and G. Lia won two of their three sets and W. J. Howard and Y. Hachuma, claimed 1½ points.

Scores:—
J. W. Leonard and G. Lia (C.C.C.)

MAMAK SHIELD.

Question Of Army Players.

(To the Editor of "China Mail.")

Sir,—Taking into consideration that the Mamak Hockey tournament is open to both civilian and service teams, it is still noticed that certain civilian clubs are forming their hockey eleven with players from the Army. It would seem that this is not fair to other civilian clubs. If the regimental teams are interested in the Mamak Hockey Tournament, would it not be better to enter them as such, instead of as civilian clubs?

Yours faithfully,
A. N. Brown, R. F. S. S. and G. Balman (2) scored for the Whites while J. J. Price and G. C. Burnett scored for the Colours.

One can look at it in two ways. One can look at it as a victory for the Whites, or one can look at it as a victory for the Colours.

One can look at it as a victory for the Whites, or one can look at it as a victory for the Colours.

SOVIET ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

Two Women Included In The Group.

Moscow.—Two women were among the crews of the Soviet ice-breakers Sibirskiy and Rusanov which set out from Archangel on perilous expeditions into the bleak wastes of the Arctic.

One of them was Nina Riaboda, the girl who became a national heroine when she spent the year 1930 in Franz Joseph Land. The other was the famous polar explorer, Irina Rusanov, after whom one of the vessels has been named. Although only 30 years of age, she has already participated in three Arctic expeditions in the past decade.

Miss Riaboda will be governor of the "Sibirskiy" colony at Severnaya Zemlia, and Rusanov will be engaged on a more exciting and adventurous mission, for she will try to make her way through the ice in an attempt to seek a north-western passage to Vladivostok over the "roof of the world."

Miss Rusanov, who is aboard the Sibirskiy, is the only woman among 65 men, 80 of whom comprise the scientific personnel and the remainder being the crew.

The captain of the vessel, Professor Otto Schmidt, declared before their departure that they hoped to accomplish their journey without wintering in the ice. Nevertheless, he added, they were taking 15 months' supplies, and provisions, none of which had been anticipated.

All their equipment, however, was of Soviet manufacture and of the very best quality, for the past two years at that Arctic outpost. Their purpose is to study meteorological conditions and to submit daily reports by means of the tiny radio station which the Soviet authorities have had erected there.

Adventurous Mission.

While the Rusanov stays at Severnaya Zemlia, the Sibirskiy will be engaged on a more exciting and adventurous mission, for she will try to make her way through the ice in an attempt to seek a north-western passage to Vladivostok over the "roof of the world."

HARBOUR OFFICE.

Drop Suffered In Tonnage.

Yesterday's figures at the Harbour Office suffered a drop, the total tonnage entered being 30,513.
Of the 11 inward registries, 7 were British and seven of four figures. British shipping, therefore, compares well with other nationalities, accounting for more than half of the traffic terminating here or passing through.

Five British vessels passed through with good cargoes, out of a total of eight of different nationalities. Four of this total number carried capacity or almost capacity shipments. Two ships passed through in ballast.

Of the total of 885 Asiatic passengers arriving here or passing through, practically half were transported on British ships. In addition, 75 Europeans—all that arrived here during the day—travelled also on British vessels.

Details follow:—

Nationality	Arr. H'Kong	Dep. Through	Cargo Tons
British	8	9,588	12,667
American	1	1,700	1,700
French	1	2,900	2

YANKEES V. CUBS FOR WORLD TITLE.

O'Doul Gives Dodgers Victory.

ATHLETICS BEATEN.

The Chicago Cubs further strengthened their position at the head of the National League yesterday when they decisively beat the Cardinals by 3 to nil in an uneventful game. Warneke pitched for the World Series champions, but failed to hold the Cubs.

The Giants, who lost Eddie Marshall on Saturday, were narrowly beaten by the Dodgers, who are making a late bid for the runners-up position. O'Doul at long last added another homer to his list.

The best game of the day was that witnessed between the Braves and the Phillies, the home side just nosing out their opponents in spite of a magnificent homer by Whitney.

The Reds went down to the Pirates after out-hitting their opponents. The Pirates are now in a very satisfactory position to become runners up in the National League.

Cissell banged out a home run to give the Indians a good win over the Tigers, but Johnson's homer for the Red Sox did not save his side from defeat at the hands of the Yankees, whose success gave them the American League Championship and the right to play the Chicago Cubs for the World Series title.

Home runs by Goslin and Levey aided the Browns, who beat the White Sox 7 to 5, and Sullivan's hitting for the White Sox turned the tables in the second game of the double header.

Mickey Cochrane scored a four-bagger, but his effort proved unavailing, the Athletics going down before the Senators by 8 to 6.

The following were the results of yesterday's Baseball games:—

National League.

	R.	H.	E.
Boston Braves	6	12	2
Philadelphia Phillies	5	9	1
Brooklyn Dodgers	3	11	1
New York Giants	2	7	0
Chicago Cubs	3	7	0
St. Louis Cardinals	0	3	2
Cincinnati Reds	2	9	0
Pittsburgh Pirates	5	8	0

American League.

	R.	H.	E.
Detroit Tigers	3	9	2
Cleveland Indians	11	16	0
New York Yankees	8	12	1
Boston Red Sox	2	5	1
St. Louis Browns	7	13	1
Chicago White Sox	5	11	1
St. Louis Browns	1	6	4
Chicago White Sox	5	16	1
Sullivan hit a home run.
Washington Senators	8	12	1
Philadelphia Athletics	8	14	1

launch," but they refused to move. A wireless message was sent to the Police at Hong Kong and on arrival of the Hai Ching here, an armed squad boarded the vessel, which anchored in quarantine, before finally docking at the Douglas Wharf. Order was maintained on the ship, while the passengers lined up, those having tickets being allowed to pass the barrier. By this means, the 40 defendants were discovered. On landing, they were marched to the Water Police Station, where Sub-Inspector Elston took them in charge.

The first man, Wong Mau, who was dressed in white, claimed to be an official of the Canton Police. Others were attired in military uniform, whilst some wore jackets and ordinary white vests.

Dangerous Practice.

Appearing on behalf of the Douglas S.S. Company, Mr. R. A. Wadson related the facts, and stated that although some of them had sufficient money for the fare, they refused to pay. "This has been going on for some time," he remarked.

ed: "If it is 40 this week it will be 140 by next Sunday. They simply walk on to the ship."

"They thought they were entitled to a free passage back to Canton, as they had a free passage up," added Mr. Wadson.

Chief Officer Oswald Dalziel, in evidence, said that all day on Saturday these men were coming on board the ship. When warned about their tickets, the soldiers, in particular, laughed, and became insolent.

Claim To Have Paid.

Some of the defendants stated to his Worship that they had paid their fare but had received no tickets.

His Worship—Was there a shortage of tickets?

Mr. Dalziel—No, sir. Sub-Inspector Elston informed his Worship that the soldiers had money, but the others were ordinary gate-crashers. In every trip, he stated, five out of every 100 were gate-crashers.

The Magistrate imposed fines of $20, with the alternative of three weeks' hard labour in the event of the fines not being paid.

SIAMESE PRINCE IN COLONY.

should not have hesitated to return via the Suez route.

"Although I am rather out of touch with conditions in my own country I think I can safely say that any change has been for the better, and I know that the country is being governed by true and capable men. Before I left for my tour, commercial conditions were hitting us very hard, but no harder than any other country, from what I have seen. Although I am by nature a pessimist, I anticipate that the position will assume a brighter outlook before long, although at times I wonder if the depression will ever lift," he concluded.

Educated in England.

The Prince, who was formerly in the Siamese Army, was educated at Cheltenham, later going to Woolwich, where he received his military training. During his recent visit in England he was at Epsom for the Derby.

He is related to His Royal Highness, King Prajadhipok, whose Queen is the Prince's sister.

The Prince, who arrived here this morning on the Dollar liner s.s. President Lincoln, is 32 years of age, but his youthful appearance would make a casual observer estimate him to be in the early 20's. Although he is of medium height, he is well built, and carries the distinguishing mark of his military training.

He leaves Hong Kong on the same liner, en route for Manila, from which port he will take ship to Singapore, and home.

NEW WING ON BLOCK TO HOUSE A CITY.

meantime, while workers are aloft, others will be underground, building an immense swimming tank, the finest in all China, it is said, dressing rooms, shower baths, and all the necessary equipment of a sport and recreation centre.

Farther away, a new refrigerator plant is to be installed, it is understood, beside which the company's meat department will operate, with a stock of the most complete variety of delicacies.

Close to this again will be the huge delivering department where a stream of parcels will be continually passing to join the tide of traffic in the street.

Four Hotel Floors.

The first four additional floors of the new building will be constructed for hotel accommodation of the most comfortable sort. The suites will be artistically, if not lavishly furnished, and the requirements of travellers or transient residents catered to by an experienced and able staff.

Above the hotel floors will be two full floors of various amusements, where, it is expected, a theatre and ball room will be two of the main attractions.

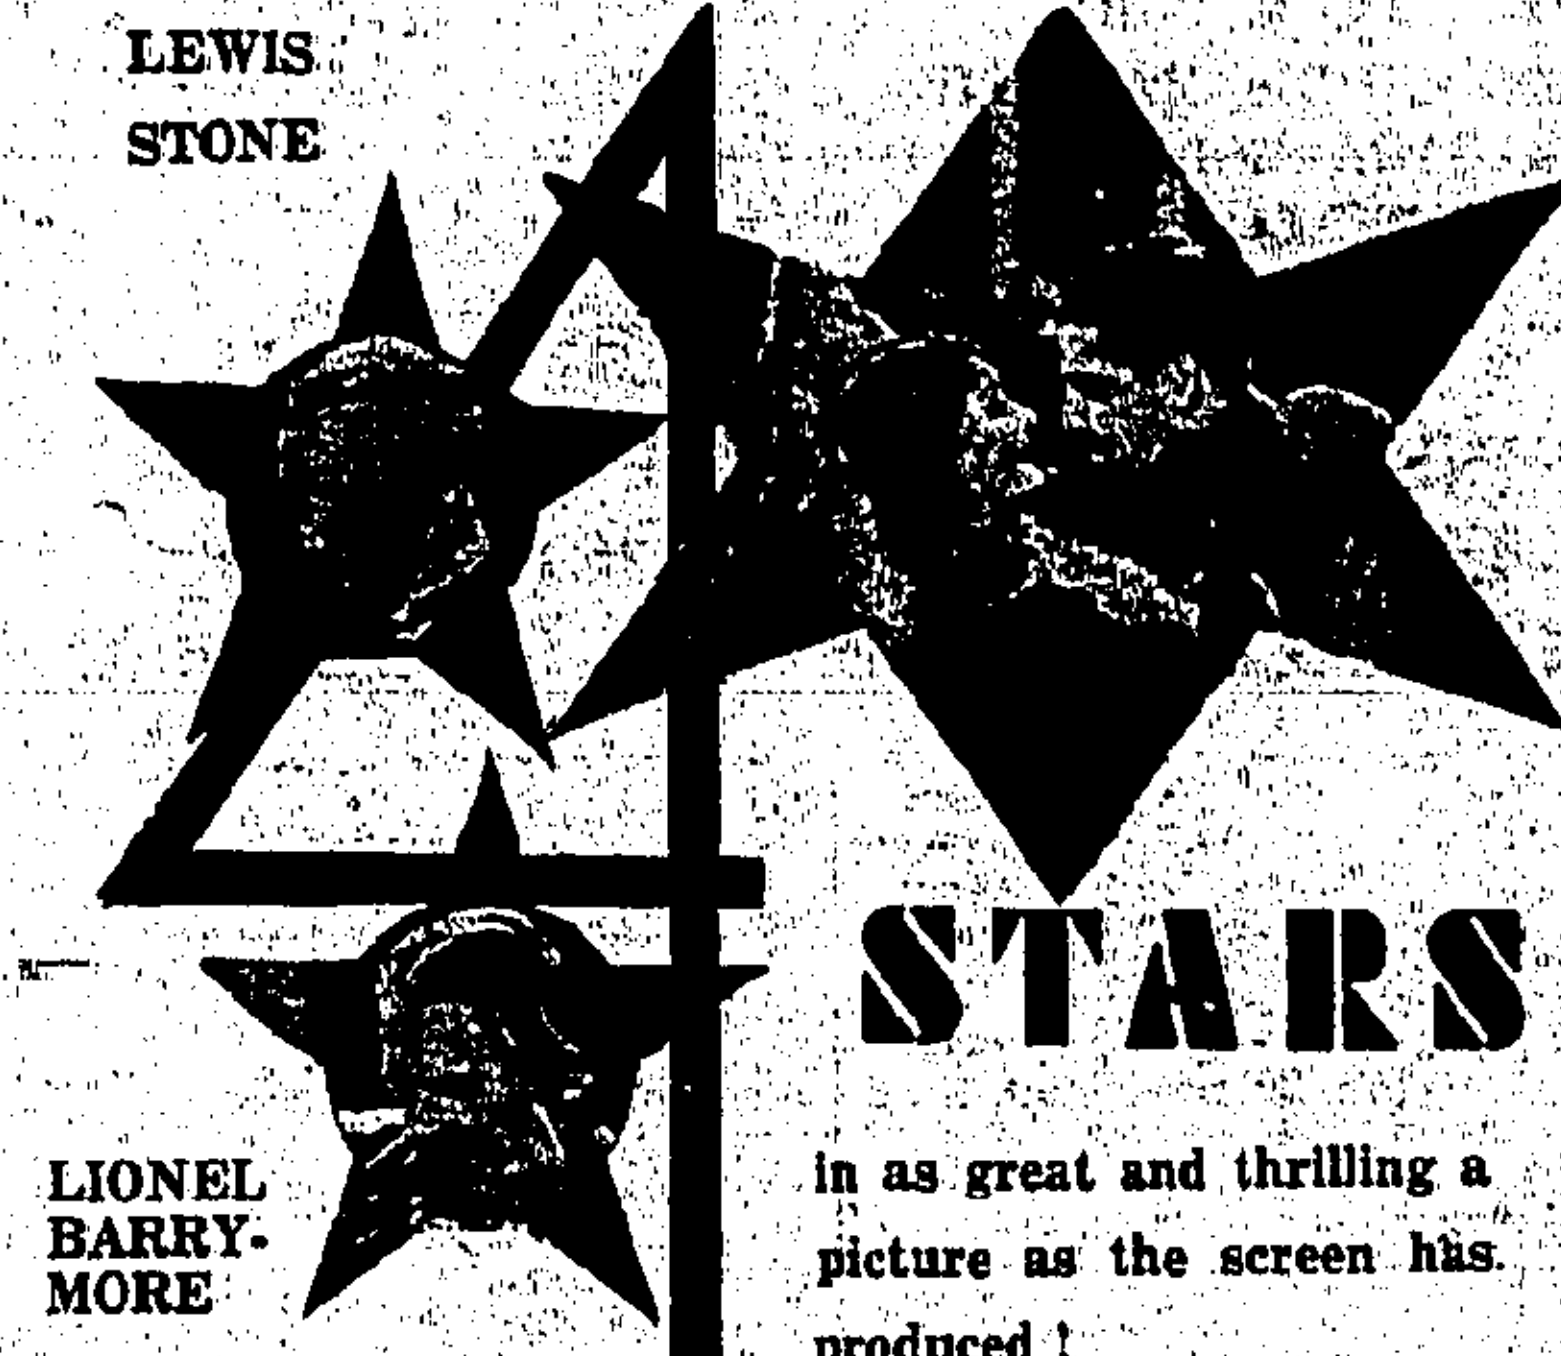

Express elevators will carry guests to these upper regions, leaping past the busy business floors.

In the east wing, when the west wing is completed, a European and Chinese restaurant will be opened. This will be one of the finest in the Far East, presided over by chefs of reputation and rare originality.
